January 4, 2014

It is said that nothing in life is certain except taxes and death. Both are sad events, but the loss of someone dear to us is by far the greater event.

Your Dad was dear to Lorette and me. He was an interesting and very sociable man with a ready smile, and our encounters with him over the years were always very pleasant, leaving us with a feeling of good fortune that we knew him and that we were in the same greater family.

We regret that we cannot be at the service today. We returned by car from Arizona late yesterday and first learned of your Dad's passing later in the day. Our drive yesterday through ice and snow from Lethbridge to Edmonton has left us very tired.

We sent our deepest condolences to all the family.
